

An EC261 case study and a new solution

2021

Background

EC261 requires airlines to provide compensation of between €250 and €600 to passengers in respect of delayed or cancelled flights or denied boarding. This is a burden for every airline which operates within or out of the European Union, regardless of how well run the airline is.

Features

Partnering with airlines to build and run an (i) end-to-end, (ii) pan-European, (iii) tech enabled (iv) operationally holistic, scaleable & disciplined solution, (v) based on best in class legal expertise

Holistic	A solution that contemplates every aspect of the cost of EC261, and addresses the total avoidable loss
Scalable	Surge capacity covered up to 100% of target volumes, and a delivery approach that could reliably accommodate this.
Targeted, robust, commercial and accurate	An approach that reliably gives the most appropriate response, at every step of the process. Responding to claims is relatively simple – despite scale we will use a combination of expertise, process and technology to defend each claim so as to lead to the best commercial client outcome
Cross airline	A solution which leverages observations and best practice across the aviation industry
Leading expertise	Solution provided by our tier 1 aviation practice (Chambers / Legal 500) and award winning Transform program, incorporating operations, process and technology experts, with traditional legal expertise
Managed service	We would run in scope activity as a completely managed service – all operational issues, administration and investment covered. Crucial, includes rigorous continuous improvement
Fully integrated	Full integration with client systems, operational protocols and legal / risk positions
We bear build investment	No charge to client until tailored build complete, and services being delivered, based on a 3 year contract Internal investment authorised for up to 3 airlines in 2020
Outcome based pricing	Pricing based on deliverables
pan-European coverage	Solution can be deployed in all European jurisdictions
