

Moratoria around the world

Aviation

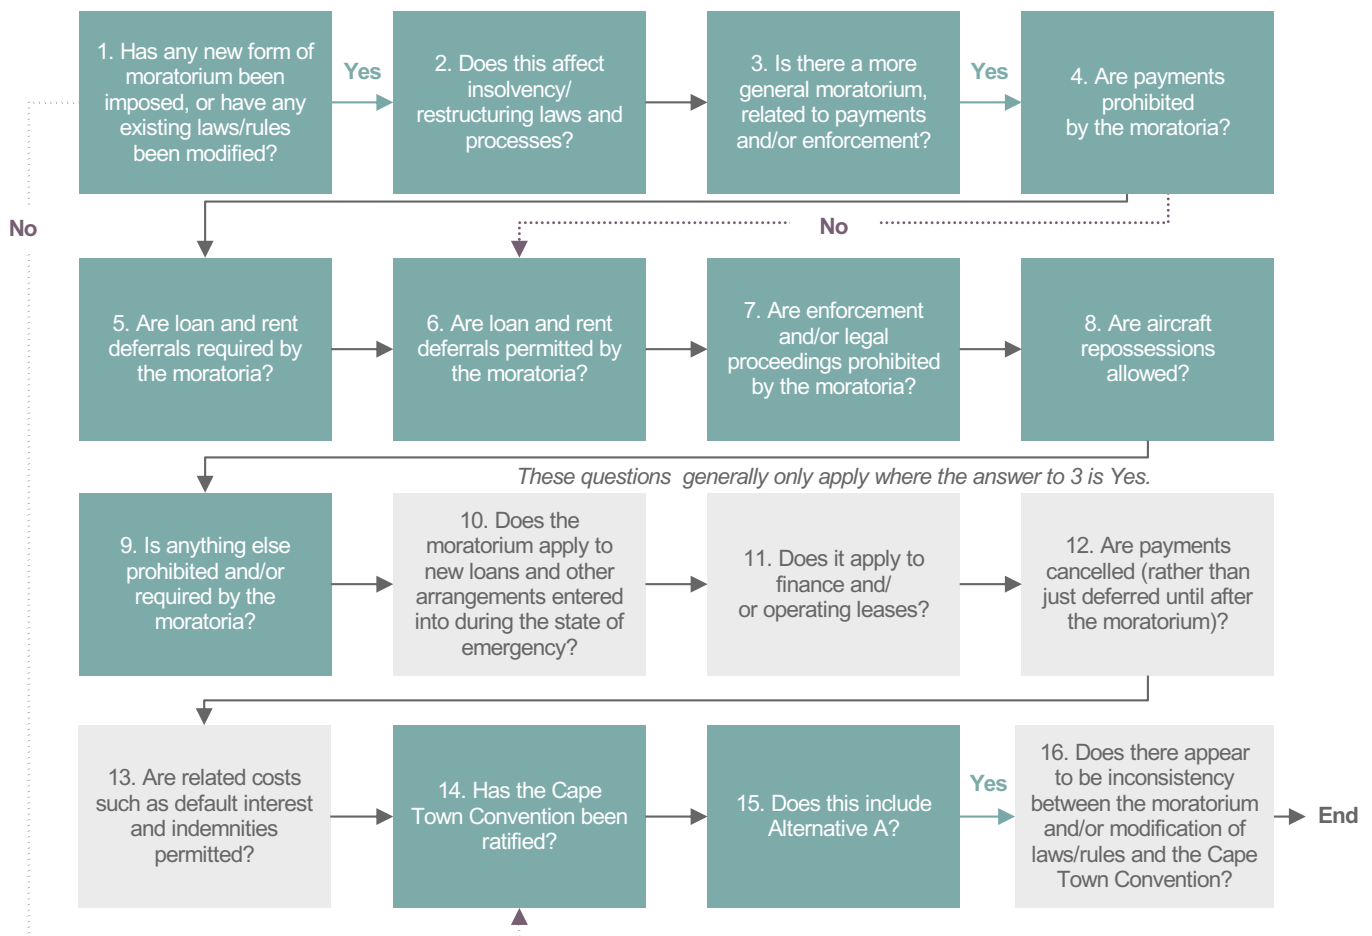

Countries across the world have rapidly rolled out wide-ranging legal measures in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. Key areas affecting creditors in the aviation sector are payment suspensions, enforcement moratoria and changes to insolvency processes. Our Moratoria around the World aviation guide addresses our clients' need for at a glance information about those measures where they may impact aircraft leasing and financing. These are covered in a simple Q&A format and the diagram below illustrates the topics covered and the way in which they can quickly be navigated.

The Moratoria around the World aviation guide has been created by our global aviation group, in collaboration with contributing law firms in those countries where we do not ourselves advise on local law. Norton Rose Fulbright has one of the world's leading aviation groups, ranked Number 1 by Legal 500 and Chambers.

Our international team includes experts in leasing, financing, disputes and restructuring across many jurisdictions and this enables us to provide a complete and comprehensive service to all key industry participants, including major leasing companies, banks and other financial institutions.

The guide covers only legal measures that affect aircraft leasing and financing and are specifically covered by the Q&A, and is not intended to be a comprehensive guide to all measures related to the COVID-19 pandemic. Relevant as of dates are indicated in each country's summary.

The speed and nature of COVID-19 legal measures across the world mean that there may have been changes since those dates. Please contact a member of the Norton Rose Fulbright team if this needs to be verified.
