

Virtual aviation finance and leasing school

November 2022

Introduction

It has been a tumultuous time for the aviation industry. COVID-19 and now the invasion of Ukraine have put stresses on it that have seldom been seen before. But it survived previous crises and it will survive these too.

This course, led by aviation finance and leasing expert Kenneth Gray, with input from leading practitioners within Norton Rose Fulbright's aviation group, will address amongst other things:

- How the aircraft finance and leasing market has changed and will change around the world
- The impact of ESG on aircraft finance and leasing
- Sanctions
- Sources of liquidity and credit support now and in the future
- Off-laying risk
- Risks inherent within the market and how to safeguard against them
- Defaults – restructuring and repossessing
- Efficient structures for financing and leasing aircraft

The school will run over five days, featuring live presentations with Q&As, workshops, fireside chats with guest speakers and case studies, as well as recorded webinars. Attendees will be expected to participate and engage in discussion, both with each other and presenters.

The school will be run at regular intervals throughout the year. Registrants who are unable to get on this school will have the opportunity to register for the future schools, and we will be in touch with further dates in due course.

“The course with Kenneth was very well organised and well presented. It was good to attend all the various sessions to have a better understanding of the aircraft finance world. I very much enjoyed the course and found it very helpful for my day to day work!”
