Cross-border M&A can be a complex undertaking. Challenges can take the form of opaque local conditions, regulatory concerns, counter-party issues and macro-level risks. We work with our clients to navigate uncertainty and successfully close transactions in markets around the world.

Whether the deal is public or private, or whether the market established or high-growth, we provide our clients with exceptional legal advice built on the expertise and experience held by our global network of over 4,000 lawyers across 59 cities. Where needed we draw additional support from our established network of local firms based in almost every country around the world.
